1 INTRODUCTION

The City of Monash recognises the capacity for creative and cultural development to increase our connection to place and to improve mental and physical wellbeing.

Creative and cultural industries economic benefits, employment, and contribution to community development.

Creative and cultural sectors have been severely impacted by the pandemic with the cancellation of events, performances, creative practice, and classes. Issues arising from the pandemic for Victoria's creative industries include loss of jobs and pathways; industry and business instability; loss of potential partners and sponsorship; disproportionate impacts for culturally and linguistically diverse people, women and young people; and loss of public confidence to attend events or connect in community.

Prior to COVID-19, creative industries contributed more than $111.7 billion or 6.4% to Australia's total gross domestic product (GDP). Victoria's cultural and creative sector contributed $31 billion or 8% to the Victorian economy, and in 2017 cultural tourism brought $2 billion to the state.<sup>2</sup>

In June 2020, the Australia Council for the Arts identified that within the federal electorates of Hotham and Chisholm – that intersect within the City of Monash – there were 3,250 cultural and creative businesses.

In 2016 within the same electorates, 8,293 people were employed across creative industries. This accounts for 6% (Chisholm) and 4.9% (Hotham) of the workforce, compared to 4.2% of the national workforce.<sup>3</sup> These statistics do not include the large number of volunteers that contribute to the development and growth of creative industries within the City.

It is important to acknowledge that half of all artists apply their creative skills outside the art and culture sector, and that creative and critical thinking will be critical to workforces of the future.

Everyone derives value from experiencing art, whether through our own creative expression or through experiencing the creative work of others. The emotional, mental and social benefits of arts experience are countless and well documented: from increased understanding of each other, stronger critical thinking skills, mental wellbeing and decreased stress levels; to significant public benefits such as social connection, expression of self and community identity, healthy childhood development and healthy ageing.<sup>1</sup>

In the 2021 Monash Health and Wellbeing survey, 81% of the 375 survey respondents reported that arts and culture in community life was very important to improve mental health. Within the ten top health and wellbeing priorities selected by the survey respondents were accessing the local library's programs and services (42%) and attending community activities, events and festivals (42%).<sup>4</sup>

Following a challenging two years of travel restrictions, more Victorians are looking to engage with events, programs and initiatives closer to home.

Aligning with a strategic vision for the support and delivery of programs to capture the interest of cultural tourists and visitors – and promote a greater attendance by Victorian day trippers – will assist economic recovery for local traders within the City.

During periods of lockdown it has been art practice, music, culture, writing and books that have helped communities move and heal through challenges. It is arts and culture – like sports – that connect community and increase positive experiences through inspiration, transformation and learning.

In 2019/20, there were 675,718 domestic day trips to the City of Monash. This is projected to increase over the next few years.<sup>5</sup>

1.1 What is the Monash Arts & Culture Strategy?

The Monash Arts & Culture Strategy 2025 (the Strategy) identifies a whole-of-City vision. The vision supports growth, recovery and celebration of creative and cultural industries, organisations and individuals to continue to sustain and inspire the Monash community. The Strategy provides a focus with clear actions to activate new and innovative projects that are data-driven, and support community and commercial enterprises to thrive.

1.2 Why is it important?

The City of Monash is a linguistically and culturally diverse city with residents from 106 countries, speaking 84 languages. Situated on the traditional lands of Wurundjeri Woi Wurrung and Bunurong people, the diversity of First Peoples heritage and contemporary culture throughout Monash is highly respected and valued. Monash Council acknowledges that culture embraces social inclusion, connection, community identity, celebration and the sharing of diversity and understanding. The arts – and the process of making, developing, and engaging with art – integrates personal expression, critical thinking, creativity and inspiration, and has proven positive impacts on literacy, and emotional and mental health.

The City of Monash is a linguistically and culturally diverse city with residents from 106 countries, speaking 84 languages.

Monash holds spaces, places and people that are ingrained in the support and delivery of Victoria's creative sector; multicultural dance, contemporary music, visual and performing arts, festivals, writers, maker markets and Australia's leading institutions for art, design and architecture.

To ensure we remain effective and assist in developing a sustainable visitor and creative economy, we require a Strategy with a considered approach to challenges including population growth, economic conditions and policy influences.

The implementation of an arts and culture strategy – led by Council, community and industry – capitalises on Monash's unique position, cultural assets, and future growth opportunities. This Strategy provides direction to effectively achieve sustainable outcomes for arts and culture implementation.

Arts and cultural activation can lead Monash through relief and recovery and strengthen community health outcomes. This responsive and reflective Strategy encourages participation, wellbeing and inspiration.

1.3 How will we make a difference?

The Monash Arts and Culture Strategy 2025 aims to:

- + Prioritise public health and wellbeing in forward plans for Council.
- + Build and support Monash creative industries to grow the creative economy.
- + Transform our spaces and places across the City.
- + Expand equality and access to sites, events and public programs.
- + Celebrate diversity.
- + Strengthen our community through the arts.
- + Increase literacy health across Monash.
- + Open opportunities for partnerships, research and data-driven programming.

Creating a whole-of-City vision for the support and delivery of arts and culture ensures that residents, visitors and creative industries are engaged, valued, and supported for future growth.

The implementation of the Strategy ensures that immediate, near-term and long-term plans provide greater impact. The Strategy maximises agility, responsiveness, sustainability, and financial efficiencies in services and programs supported by Council.

1.4 How will we know we succeed?

A strategic focus for arts and culture will consider collaboration between Council departments to achieve Strategy goals. The development and implementation of the Strategy will benefit:

Creative and local economic recovery

Creating a whole-of-City focus to support engagement with, and advocacy for, local business.

Health and wellbeing

Supporting activations and programs brings the community together to celebrate Monash culture while prioritising public health and safety.

Data-driven programming

Leveraging relationships with community and the creative sector to collaboratively design programs, and using data to evaluate and understand community needs for arts and culture.

Improve efficiency, impact and sustainability

Aligning forward plans to the Strategy will enable more efficient and impactful activations and programs to deliver on Monash community expectations.

Monash integrated cultural precinct

Aligning community and visitor needs for infrastructure and facilities will assist in growing cultural tourism for the region, including for the planned Monash Integrated Cultural Precinct.

Creating a whole-of-City vision for the support and delivery of arts and culture ensures that residents, visitors and creative industries are engaged, valued, and supported for future growth.

Attraction of major sponsors and events

Providing a platform to educate and share our vision to potential partners and sponsors, and to attract major events.

First peoples focus

Identifying Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander self-determination, culture, arts and engagement for the City in line with the Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP).

Reinvigorate and enrich community life

Supporting the community to return to events, festivals, libraries, cultural venues and open spaces.

We will know we are successful in implementing the Strategy when community, businesses and industry provide feedback that they see evidence of the aims and goals identified within the Strategy being implemented and having impact.

We will engage the Culture Counts system and framework to understand our impact and efficiency of the Strategy implementation. Culture Counts is a sector-developed and academically validated metric framework; a set of software tools designed to capture feedback from the public, peer assessors and self-assessors. More than 40 local governments across Australia are using Culture Counts to collect feedback on the intrinsic impacts they deliver to their communities. The data assists to plan programs, facilities and events that enhance community engagement and contribute to long-term success and sustainability.

The framework is a tool that is used to capture clear evidence and data on how programs, events and initiatives are achieving the intangible aspects of creative delivery including transformation, new thinking, learning, inspiration and more. Benchmarking against other Councils of the same size and nature is invaluable.

The Arts and Libraries department of Council – including Monash Gallery of Art (MGA), Arts Culture and Events (ACE) and Monash Public Libraries – have implemented Culture Counts and will develop a new evaluation framework to report against the Strategic vision, pillars, priorities and objectives. An annual report will be published on achievements towards the Strategy.

We will know we are successful in implementing the Strategy when community, businesses and industry provide feedback that they see evidence of the aims and goals identified within the Strategy being implemented and having impact.

WHERE ARE WE NOW?

The Monash community are active participants in arts and culture and regularly attend events, programs, and venues.

In 2017-18 in the federal electorate of Hotham which covers much of the City of Monash, 86% of people over 15 said they had visited cultural events or venues and 31% of people reported they had been involved in creative activities themselves such as performing, singing, playing a musical instrument, dancing, writing or creating visual art of craft.<sup>6</sup>

Monash is home to the Museum for Australian Photography at Monash Gallery of Art (MGA). The nationally significant MGA collection is held within the Harry Seidler-designed building in Wheelers Hill. It explores Australian photographic practice over the past 30 years, represents contemporary discussion, and supports artists through digital innovation and commissioning of new work. MGA's public and secondary and higher education programs are renowned.

The recently adopted Monash Integrated Cultural Precinct Feasibility Study and Business Case outlines redevelopment to present new exhibitions and program spaces, an expanded sculpture garden, and a contemporary library that will become an art, cultural and learning destination for Southeast community and visitors.

Within Monash there are six prominent Public Library branches that support cultural development and a greater understanding of creative practice through workshops, after-school programs and resource management. Public libraries are culture-making social entities; cultural diversity is shared through rich collections in over 40 languages other than English, and public programs that expand literacy health for the entire Monash community.

Monash holds a significant Public Art Collection with artworks commissioned by Council in response to local stories and cultural heritage.

Council invests in an annual Festivals and Events program that celebrates and shares performing arts and live music for community.

86% of people over 15 said they had visited cultural events or venues and 31% of people reported they had been involved in creative activities themselves such as performing, singing, playing a musical instrument, dancing, writing or creating visual art of craft.

The activation of community-initiated events in open space and venues, such as The Track Gallery and Clayton Theatre, are supported through an extensive community grants program.

Council provides an active Placemaking unit that delivers on integrated and collaborative approaches to community neighbourhood planning and activation.

Council's Economic Development department supports business and traders, including creative industries, to access networking, business support and event opportunities.

Across City-operated facilities, many creative and cultural programs are delivered annually including special events within our Aquatic and Sporting facilities, Education and Creative programs delivered within our early years and kindergarten facilities, and events in collaboration with our senior community members.

The Community Grants Program provides funding that supports community groups and organisations to deliver creative and cultural projects, activities, events and festivals that strengthen benefits to the Monash community.

Monash's Halls are also made available for hire by community organisations and practitioners to deliver community programs and activations.

Council's support of creative industries is augmented by many community and private businesses and organisations that encourage Monash's growth through creative and cultural practices.

Monash holds a significant Public Art Collection with artworks commissioned by Council in response to local stories and cultural heritage.

Public libraries are culture-making social entities; cultural diversity is shared through rich collections in over 40 languages other than English, and public programs that expand literacy health for the entire Monash community.

Cultural mapping

To progress the development of the Strategy, Council has collated evidence and produced a database on the existing creative industries within the City of Monash. Through this work we have discovered that:

| 1  | 2  | 3   | 4  | 5   | 6  | 7   | 8   | 9  |
|--|--|---|--|---|--|---|---|--|
| Most (46%) creative industry stakeholders identified in the City of Monash fall under the classification of Creative and Performing Arts Activities. | Most (31%) creative industry stakeholders identified in the City of Monash fall under the Business Type of Design. | No stakeholders in Print Media or Support Services were identified in the City of Monash. | Most creative industry stakeholders identified are concentrated in the suburbs of Mt Waverley (23%) and Glen Waverley (23%), followed by Oakleigh (19%). | No creative industry stakeholders were identified in the suburb of Huntingdale. | Community Centres are the predominant (51%) creative industries facilities identified in the City of Monash. | There were no facilities identified in the City of Monash that primarily provide for archival activities. | Clayton and Glen Waverley appear to have the greatest number of creative industries facilities. | There were no facilities identified in the suburbs of Hughesdale, Huntingdale and Oakleigh East. |

3 WHAT WE DID

It is arts and culture – like sports – that connect community and increase positive experiences through inspiration, transformation and learning.

Arts and cultural activation can lead Monash through relief and recovery and strengthen community health outcomes. This responsive and reflective Strategy encourages participation, wellbeing and inspiration.

The City of Monash undertook three stages of Strategy development over one year, including:

- 1. Documentation review – Collated and reviewed corporate documentation, current research on recovery for creative and cultural communities, state and federal policies, program evaluations and data, and relevant contemporary reports on sector impacts.
- 2. Cultural mapping – Collated a database of creative and cultural industries, community organisations, practitioners and individuals that work in, deliver or support arts in Monash.
- 3. Community engagement – Developed a community survey and facilitated a series of workshops with creatives and key stakeholders.

The Monash Arts and Culture Strategy 2025 aligns to the Victorian Government timeframes for Creative State 2025, a four year creative strategy designed to grow jobs and skills.

3.2. What we heard

In late 2021, the City of Monash undertook research into the local creative and cultural industry, community and stakeholder engagement, data collection and community-based feedback to help shape the Strategy. We engaged with over 300 people from a range of internal and external stakeholders and the broader community using a number of methods, including:

- + A community survey via the City of Monash's Shape community engagement platform
- + 1:1 interviews with a cross-section of individual stakeholders
- + Online and face-to-face workshops with internal and external stakeholder groups.

The data and feedback received during these engagement activities have been used to inform the development of the key deliverables of the Strategy; specifically, the vision statement, pillars and strategic priorities. The engagement activities revealed a series of principles which will underpin the approach to implementation of the Strategy.
